

-----
Title: Kabur's Journal

Author: Kabur
-----

The Campaign to slaughter the meer goes well.
Although they seem to oppose the forces of ours at every turn, we still defeat them in combat. Spies of the Meer have been found and slain outside of the fortress of ours. The fools underestimate us.
We have the power of Lord Exodus behind us.
Soon they will learn to serve the Juka and I shall carry the head of the wench, Dasha for all warriors to share triumph under.

One of the warriors of Juka died today. During the training of ours he spoke out in favor of the warriors of Meer, saying that they were indeed powerful and would provide a challenge to the Juka. A Juka in fear is no Juka. I gave him death of a coward outside battle.

More spies of the Meer
have been found around
the fortress of ours.
Many have been seen and escaped warriors of ours.
Those who have been captured and tortured have revealed nothing to us, even when subjected to the spells of the females. I know the Meer Must have plans against us if they send so many spies. I may send troops of the Juka to invade the camp of theirs as a warning.

I have met Dasha in battle this day. The efforts of her to draw me into a black duel were foolish. Had we not been interrupted in the cave I would have ended the life of hers, but that will have to wait for another battle. Lord Exodus ordered more patrols around the fortress of ours. If Dasha is any indication strike soon. More Meer stood outside the fortress of ours than I have ever seen at once. They must seek vengeance for the devastation of their forest. Many Juka stand ready at the base of the mountain to face the forces of theirs, but today may be the final battle. Exodus has summoned me. I must prepare.

Dusk has passed and the Juka now live in a new age, a later time. I have just returned from exploring the new world that surrounds the fortress of Juka. During the attack of the Meer the madman Adranath tried to destroy the fortress of ours with great magic. At once he was still and light surrounded the fortress. Everything faded from view. When I regained the senses of mine I saw no sign of Meer except Dasha. She has not been found since this new being, Blackthorn blasted her from the top of the fortress. The forest was gone now. Replaced by grasslands. In the far distance I could see humans that had covered the bodies of theirs in

marks. Even gargoyles populated this place.
Exodus has explained to me the the Juka and the fortress of ours had been pulled forward in time. The world we knew is now a thousand years in the past. Lord Exodus says he has saved the Juka from extinction, I do not believe him. I asked this stranger about the Meer but he tells me a new enemy remains to be destroyed. It seams the enemies of ours have passed away to dust like the forest.